About the Technical Seminar

Construction Industry Council (CIC) has been striving to promote safety and good practices in construction site, issuing different safety alerts to provide initial recommendations and quick reference for frontline construction personnel on the safety measures to prevent similar accidents from happening again. While the Technical Seminar for Electrical Works Safety last year was well received among the industry stakeholders, CIC is joining with the Hong Kong Federation of Occupational Safety and Health Associations to organise the captioned technical seminar to promote the usage of low voltage hand tools in construction site. Stakeholders from different areas included representatives from developers, contractors, safety officers and technicians are cordially invited to share their experience and perspectives in using low voltage hand tools in construction sites. It is hoped that through this Technical Seminar, participants could have a better understanding of the use of reduced voltage hand tools in construction site and could promptly implement the good and safe practices in the construction sites to reduce the chance of electrical accident.
